

Globetrotter

Amazing Places to Stay | Water Views

Summertime calls for an escape from the daily grind, and what better way to get away from it all than by enjoying a few days near the water. Research has shown that spending time in nature can improve your health, so get outside and hit the beach or the lake – or just kick back and immerse yourself in the view at one of these hotels. We've rounded up some of the best waterside accommodations in North America, from a serene Canadian lakeside retreat to some saltwater stunners along the Pacific coast.

Manoir Hovey North Hatley, Quebec

Only 90 minutes outside Montreal lie the tranquil shores of Lake Massawippi and the enchanting Manoir Hovey. Built in 1900, this property retains the feel of an early 20th century summer estate. Its 30 rooms and seven suites feature modern design choices and finishes. Surrounded by lush English gardens, the hotel offers a range of activities, from spa treatments and yoga classes to kayaking, paddle boarding and private fishing lessons. The on-site restaurant provides gorgeous lakeside views as a backdrop for inventive takes on regional cuisine by renowned chef Francis Wolf.

From $148; manoirhovey.com

La Casa Que Canta Zihuatanejo, Mexico

This all-suite, adults-only luxury hotel is perched on the shores of La Ropa Beach, a prime location in Mexico's Costa Grande region on the Pacific coast. The terra-cotta-roofed property offers spectacular views of the clear blue waters of Zihuatanejo Bay. All 25 suites feature ample terraces to admire the scenery, and some offer private plunge pools. The hotel offers privacy as well as top-quality dining at Mar y Cielo, which serves contemporary Mexican cuisine. The hotel has a Hollywood connection: its infinity pool was used in the movie When a Man Loves a Woman, starring Meg Ryan and Andy Garcia, and La Ropa Beach was the place where Tim Robbins's character in The Shawshank Redemption dreamed of escaping to.

From $290; lacasaquecanta.com

Terranea Rancho Palos Verdes, California

Located in Los Angeles County on the scenic Palos Verdes Peninsula, this hotel makes you feel like you are a million miles from the hustle and bustle of the sprawling LA metropolis. Built atop bluffs overlooking the Pacific Ocean, the Mediterranean-inspired resort offers uninterrupted oceanfront views. The property features a range of accommodations: guest rooms, suites, villas and bungalows. The 102-acre estate includes a golf course, full-service spa, fitness center, four swimming pools, a kids' club and a range of ecological enrichment programs for guest to participate in. From $395; terranea.com

