Spend Some Cozy Nights at One of L.A.'s Most Romantic Hotels

BY JENNY PETERS
LOS ANGELES LOCAL EXPERT

Los Angeles is famous for its romantic hotels, those special spots where Hollywood romances both real and imaginary have played out. But you don't have to be a movie star to have a spectacular experience in one of the beautiful hotels found all across the L.A. basin, from ocean to mountains to right in the heart of the burgeoning downtown scene. One thing they all have in common is fantastic service; add in incredibly comfortable beds, private patios or balconies and other special elements and you may never want to go back home again. There are secluded sanctuaries like the Hotel Bel Air, nestled in the elegant hills of the city's most exclusive neighborhood; lovely beachfront resorts far from the madding crowd like Terranea in the Palos Verdes peninsula; or high-rise urban oases like the Ritz-Carlton Los Angeles. Whichever wonderful hotel you choose, there's sure to be just the elements that make love blossom, be it champagne and strawberries, a stand-up paddleboarding experience for two or a luxurious couple's spa treatment that will make the rest of the world simply melt away.

Terranea Resort is located high on a bluff on the Palos Verdes peninsula, a sun-drenched SoCal spot that's ideal for a romantic getaway from it all. It's especially romantic in the early spring, for that's when the humpback whales are migrating past and Terranea's cliffs overlooking the Pacific Ocean offer an ideal vantage point to watch them playfully cavort as they move past. This eco-friendly resort offers expansive rooms, suites, bungalows and villas —" whatever your heart desires. Eight restaurants serve your every whim, including the recently redesigned Catalina Kitchen, which offers locally sourced dishes influenced by California's abundant local offerings. Its famed Friday Seafood Buffet is a lovely way to start a long, blissful romantic weekend; add in a spa treatment, a round of golf, some pool time, a ride in the surf via kayak or SUP and you'll never forget your Terranea escape.
