GET DOWN WITH DESIGN! OUR GUIDE TO THE BEST WAYS TO LIVE, SHOP, AND STAY IN L.A.

The high life: Atop the ninth-tallest building in the Western Hemisphere is Spire 73, the highest open-air bar in the country, courtesy of InterContinental Los Angeles Downtown.

SPIRE TO GREATNESS

AT SPIRE 73, IT'S BOTTOMS UP—WAY UP!

BY AUTUMN SIMON

The tallest open-air bar in the country, Spire 73 is taking the DTLA scene to new heights. Located on the 73rd floor of the InterContinental Los Angeles Downtown hotel, the bar claims another superlative: topping the ninth-tallest building in the entire Western Hemisphere. Inspired by a modern twist on old classics with a hint of Asian chic, the rooftop bar and lounge will offer sexy botanical cocktails, retro-mod fire pits, and a mouthwatering menu to rival the space's breathtaking 360-degree views of LA and Hollywood. Officially opening this month, Spire 73 will give guests a heady new perspective on Downtown cool. Hot! intercontinental.com/losangelesdowntown
